IN JEST. . . .

(Imagine, for a moment, we are of Shakespeare's time, early 16th Century, when writers write "prettily" and presume upon gentlefolk and London squires for readership of the early press, a single sheet of foolscap, printed poorly on one side. It is a town near London. . . .)

PRITHEE

Prithee, scribe, darest put to paper what many hear in whole and you may not print in part. For sooth, think ye run this hamlet or even a small part thereof? Bad tides befall you if one hair is rankled by publikation of even varnished truth. What substance your ego has to presume to quill one premature word. What right have you? Insipid scribe, scratching and mumbling and putting words to paper which faileth propriety when yon gentlemen saith print not.

Know this be 16th Century and scribes, like witches burn to public ashes, their tell - tale, frizzled moustaches and frazzled hair a sign that none can scan the words of gentlemen. Would some day men dare amend a right to a new Magna Carta which lets a lowly press print what thinks it right and fair and pleasing to all?

Scribe, write this: Knowest when to print and when not. Say we, "go" when time is best and the sun is high and sky wondrous clear, even for your few readers. With your help they will support good deeds as we deem the time to tell when they should appreciate us.

Keep they service and thrust not your pen into civic endeavor until we think it civil and timely to tell what is about.

Stay for a little while, but print our successes upon release from yonder sources of commercial venture, whose service by our bye you are in. Without us, ye shall perish in short time.

There's a good man, scribe; your acumen is in knowing how to letter and emblazen prettily. We censor not, but mainly guide your hand to tell truly at proper time.

But, please, dear scribe, spell names correctly.

Is that so much to ask?

NOW-NOW-NOW

We wish to thank publicly in advance the following newspapers and television stations around the state who contributed to distribution of news about Folk Fete:

Temple Daily Telegram, Austin American - Statesman, Waco News - Tribune and Tribune Herald, Bryan Daily Eagle, The Houston Post, The Dallas Morning News, numerous weeklies including Thorndale Champion, and others who have helped tell the Folk Fete story. Other publications may have run releases, but clippings have not been received at this writing.

And also television stations KTBC-TV, KCEN-TV, KWTX-TV and KBTX-TV, which serve the larger Central Texas area.

If the crowd count is good, and the rains stayed away, these media helped.

FOLK FETE SCENE - Young people surround the City Park Pavilion to hear the popular teen band "Age of Innocence" as their elders lined up for Western, Iatalian, Czech and German food Friday night. The crowd moved on to Yoe Field at 8 p.m. where beauty representatives were presented in a program that included a Milam County Historical pageant. The scene was repeated Saturday with the addition of souvenir booths, arts andc crafts exhibit and out-of-town visitors.

Donors Top Blood Quota With 82 Units

The 82 units of blood collected at Wednesday's Red Cross Bloodmobile visit put Cameron "over the top" for the blood year, according to Sister Aloysius, blood program chairman.

Ninety-one prospective donors were on hand to donate blood. Seven were rejected and two were unsuccessful, Sister Aloysius said.

The 82 units brought Cameron's total for the year, which started July 1, to 349 units, or 123 percent of the 284-unit quota set for 1969-70.

"Cameron should really be proud of our record," Sister Aloysius said. "We want to thank everyone who worked to put us over the top, and especially the donors. Without them the program could not succeed."

She emphasized that many people work for the program, and local blood program officials appreciate the efforts of all who helped bring Cameron's total to 65 units over the year's quota.

The next Bloodmobile visit will be in September.

TSTI Opens W. Coast School

Milton Schiller of Cameron, a vice president of Texas State Technical Institute, was among a group of Texans who made a trip to San Diego, California, last week and spent three days officially opening a school for employees of General Dynamics' Convair Division there.

Schiller accompanied Dr. Roy Dugger, president of TSTI, Dr. Ted Talbot, associate vice president, and State Rep. Bob Salter of Waco on the trip June 1, when the first class was started in the new school.

Texas State Technical Institute will supervise and operate the school for G D's Convair Division. It is located in buildings of the big industrial firm's headquarters in San Diego. All the students are employees of Convair and the corporation bears all costs of the school's operation.

General Dynamics felt that some of their personnel in management and mid - management needed to upgrade their education, especially in their technical fields, and asked Texas State Technical Institute to start the school for that purpose.

All instructors have been recruited from educational institutions and other sources in California.

Dr. Dugger addressed the first class of approximately 100 students on June 2.

In addition to various technical subjects, there is one course in Industrial Human Relations scheduled. This first school term is six months in length.

At graduation Convair will fly the students to the TSTI campus in Waco and they will participate in graduation exercises with students there.

It is believed that Texas State Technical Institute's operation of this new school in a distant state is a first in the vocational technical field of education.

City's First Festival Is Big Success

Folk Fete visitors and townsmen lined the streets Saturday morning to open the second day of Cameron's unique first annual celebration of the blend of ethnic groups that have added color to the history of this area.

Music, beauties, horses, Shriners and antique cars brought laughs and applause along the parade route as overcast, but rainless skies favored the outdoor Folk Fete events.

Booths at City Park and the Library grounds were beehives of activity as crowds from around the state sampled Czech, German, Mexican, Western and Italian food, bought souveniers, sno cones and enjoyed music from the historic park pavilion.

Ticket sales hit a fast pace Saturday morning as the parade ended and the tour of historic homes began.

The Arts and Crafts show at the air conditioned Cameron Public Library drew a steady stream of visitors and puppet shows produced by art students of Mrs. W. L. Stroup were a favorite for the youngsters.

Highlight of the day was presentation of ethnic dancers at Yoe Field Saturday night with popular Texas MC "Cactus" Pryor. Dances at the National Guard Armory and Teen Club completed the festivities.

Friday night was a preview of the crowds Saturday as food booths opened in City Park and bands played from 5 to 7 p.m. followed by the presentation of ethnic beauties and Historical Pageant at Yoe Field.

Fete Cites Boosters Of Brochure

The co-chairmen of Folk Fete this weekend extended appreciation to 14 sponsors of permanent hardback copies of a Folk Fete brochure on sale in softback during the Fete.

Mrs. Perry Holder and Miss Mildred Thornton, Fete co - chairmen, acknowledged the support of these 11 among others who gave generously to assure production of the 36-page picture brochure:

Cameron Chamber of Commerce, Friends of the Library, Noon Lions Club, Glass The Florist, Hefley-Stedman Motor Co., Mack's Oil Co., Ideal Hatcheries, Inc., Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Cameron, Texan Restaurant, Cameron Machine Shop and Marek-Burns Funeral Home.

Fete officials said contributions meant publication of permanent - bound copies of Fete brochure, the first Fete in Cameron and Milam history and the base for an annual celebration noting Milam ethnic and cultural history.

For New Building . . . School Board Opens Bids

Cameron school trustees accepted three bids on construction of a new homemaking building, discussed insurance, and heard a proposal for board policy on baccalaureate speakers.

At a regular meeting Thursday night trustees accepted a bid from Best Steel Building Co. of Houston for the homemaking building.

Bids on foundation, electrical, plumbing, and air conditioning and heating were opened. Matula Construction Co. of Cameron was low bidder on foundation. The plumbing and electrical bids were referred to the Board's building committee for study.

Goode Refrigeration Co. of Cameron was low bidder on the heating and cooling.

James Camp, previously appointed as the school's servicing agent for the next three years, met with trustees and discussed appraisal reports for renewal of insurance policies.

Board President Hilliard Thomas and Bentley Hause were absent from the meeting. Vice President Calvin Cobb presided. Present were board members, Coleman Duncum, Fred Wil Hornung, ~~Chalse~~ McDermott, Forrest Sapp, and Supt. D. R. Dodson.

Duncum asked Supt. Dodson if it is customary to have the same man deliver the baccalaureate sermon two years in a row. Supt. Dodson said the senior class picks the speaker, and added that he was "pretty sure" Rev. James Lafferty had been speaker two consecutive years.

Speaker for the 1969 and 1970 baccalaureate services was Rev. Wirt Skinner, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Duncum said "Maybe there ought to be a Board policy" and said that some of the public was under the impression the speaker was chosen on a rotating basis.

"I'm going to say something and I don't care if you put it in the paper," Duncum said. "A big part of our problem with kids the past two years has been that man," Duncum noted that the minister had accompanied a group of boys who appeared at the March 12 board meeting to ask for revision of the board's policy on boys' hair.

Supt. Dodson mentioned a recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling that schools cannot dictate length of students' hair, and Duncum replied, "The Supreme Court can't tell us who to have for baccalaureate service."

He then offered a motion to have board policy provide for selection of baccalaureate speakers on a rotating basis with approval of speaker by school administration and the school board.

Supt. Dodson said he was writing a policy revision on sick leave and he could add the proposal for board action at the next meeting.

Duncum also asked Supt. Dodson if anyone had "proof read" the valedictorian's speech. Dodson said the speech was read by the senior class advisor, the high school principal, and himself, and revisions had been made.

"We try to teach students to think independently, and not play follow the leader," Dodson continued, "Where do you draw the line?"

McDermott asked why a student who had worn a black armband to school and who had "been kicked off the student council" was named valedictorian.

Supt. Dodson replied that choice of class valedictorian is determined by a student's academic record.

In other business, trustees elected Mrs. Anita Hauk as teacher, subject to assignment; voted to renew membership in the Texas Association of School Boards; and agreed to preview a film on school fire safety, probably at the next board meeting.

URBAN RENEWAL TOWN MEETING SET FOR TUESDAY

A Town Meeting to review planning for Cameron Urban Renewal will open at 7:30 Tuesday, June 16, in the Methodist Fellowship Hall.

A. W. McCullin, Sr. chairman of Cameron Urban Renewal Agency, and Mayor E. A. Perrin are joint chairmen for the meeting which is principally to answer questions about Urban Renewal planning and give audience to any objections or proposals.

Also scheduled to attend the Town Meeting are representatives of Bernard Johson Engineers of Houston who have done preliminary planning on downtown changes.

A total of $617,535 in federal funds, matching $3 to every Cameron $1 in cash or credits, has been designated for updating Cameron's downtown are. Additional money for relocation assistance to affected businesses brings the total to $776,885.

The meeting Tuesday is a requirement before Part II plans are submitted to Housing and Urban Development headquarters for approval.

CISD Equalization Board Session Opens

The Board of Equalization for Cameron Independent School District will be in session beginning 8:30 a.m. Monday, June 15, at the tax office, 1st and Central streets, to determine tax values for 1970.

CISD Equalization Board members are John A. Smith, Hugo Aigner and Eugene Smitherman.

Marker Cites Home, Pavilion

An official State Historical Survey Committee marker was cemented in place last Tuesday at Cameron City Park, citing the first home in Cameron and the historic pavilion in the park.

The marker reads:

"Site of First Home in Cameron. Boyhood home of L. S. 'Sul' Ross (1838-1898). His father Shapley P. Ross, Indian agent and Ranger, built house after moving here about 1841; he chose this site because it had a good spring. L. S. Ross, who was a Confederate general, served as president of Texas A&M College after holding office as Governor.

"In 1890 this pavilion was erected to accomodate band concerts, meetings and rallies. It was the scene in 1892 of a landmark debate between two gubernatorial candidates: Gov. James S. Hogg and George Clark."

The pavilion, about 80 years old, was the scene during the Folk Fete for rollicking music, probably wakening echoes from the past, when other bands and other crowds gathered at the site.

The campaign of 1892 is termed "one of the hottest in Texas history" by Texas Almanac and a throng of 5,000 was reported present for the debate.

The pavilion is reported to have hosted evangelists, Shakespearean touring companies, singers, and other traveling early-day entertainers.

The 2.48 acres for the park is believed to have been quitclaimed to the city sometime in 1890 by W. S. G. and Lizzie B. Wilson, expressly to provide the pavilion platform for the Hogg-Clark debate, according to Herald records.

HISTORICAL MARKER AT CITY PARK

Final Note Added To 'Sign Saga'

Taylor Morris discovered he was 'front page news' of The Herald when his daughter called his attention to a story in the June 8 issue.

The story asked how a 'Cameron 3957 miles' sign got to Alaska. A picture in the June 4 issue showed the sign among numerous ones pointing to other cities.

Felix Matula had told The Herald that Morris put the sign up when he took his family to Alaska several years ago.

Morris was in The Herald office Monday to complete the story. In November, 1956 while in the Air Force he was transferred from Edward Gary Air Force base in San Marcos to Ladd Air Force Base, Fairbanks, Alaska.

From the Alaska base he was transferred back to Orlando, Florida for further schooling. As his family traveled back to Florida by car they saw numerous poles along the highway ahead and thought they were totem poles.

As they got nearer they saw they were telephone poles (put up by Highway Dept.) with signs from various parts of the country nailed to them.

After Morris's schooling he gathered his family (living in Maraksville Community) together again and headed back to Alaska.

That was when Morris asked the late L. J. (Shorty) Matula, Mrs. Morris's cousin, to paint the sign which they nailed to the pole.

Morris nailed the 'Cameron 3957 Miles' sign up in August of '57.

The Morris family were here visiting in the Maraksville Community to attend their daughter's wedding. They now live in Amarillo where he is employed at Bell Activity, a Government inspection station.

Local Men At Austin Conference

Hilliard Thomas, Cameron banker, and Frank M. Luecke, Herald editor-publisher, attended the two-day Governor's Conference on Texas Criminal Justice, in Austin Friday and Saturday.

The conference was called by Gov. Preston Smith to consider implementation of proposed new standards for criminal justice by the American Bar Association.

The ABA selected Texas, along with Florida and Arizona, to consider possible implementation of a model code.

Sessions were held in the Auditorium of Austin National Bank and the Chamber of Texas House of Representatives. Attending were representatives of the ABA, the Texas State Bar, Texas law schools, the League of Women Voters, the District and County Attorneys Associations and the AFL-CIO.

Joyce Cox of Houston, chairman of the Texas Committee to implement the ABA Proposals, was conference chairman.

For A&M Project . . . Grad Designs Spacecraft

COLLEGE STATION

Calvin E. Shenkir of Buckholts paralleled Texas A & M engineers of the university's Space Technology Division when he adopted an aerospace engineering course project.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Shenkir of Buckholts, Shenkir is a graduate of Buckholts High School.

Shenkir chose to design a reusable spacecraft, one that would ride a standard booster into earth orbit for rendezvous with a space station or other space missions.

Afterwards, utilizing lifting surfaces deployed in the weightlessness of space, the craft would re-enter the earth's atmosphere as an airplane for a soft landing at a conventional airport. The ship would then be reflown on similar missions.

Space Technology Division personnel are working on the concept of such a combination airplane - spacecraft as part of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's feasibility study for an earth - orbital laboratory. The project has reached the stage of a "space shuttle" model which is now undergoing wind tunnel testing.

Shenkir, a May aerospace engineering graduate, had no interaction with the NASA project. His reusable spacecraft ideas were advanced with other student projects in an aerospace engineering course instructed by Dr. Charles A. Rodenberger.

The students' seminar ideas take many forms, but in each case the senior must justify the idea with investigation and calculation to prove the idea has merit.

Shenkir's design took into consideration hypersonic flight conditions at launch and reentry, subsonic conditions during the latter stages of the landing phase, Federal Aviation Administration regulations applicable to aircraft and NASA data.

For example, he had to design suitable protection for parts of the craft exposed to heat buildup during the high-speed reentry, at a speed of about 25,000 mph and a 60 degree reentry angle.

Shenkir employed three reusable J-2 rocket engines of 230,000 pounds thrust each for powered phases in reaching desired earth orbit.

"After the craft enteres the earth's atmosphere and reaches a speed of about 425 mph, two turboject engines (mounted along the fuselage) are ignited for subsonic powered flight," Shenkir explained.

Wings, tail surfaces to be repositioned for subsonic flight and turboject engines are all deployable and use one hydraulic system. He computed total volume of the craft at nearly 10,000 cubic feet. Engine, wing, landing gear and equipment considerations leave 2,500 cubic feet for cargo and passengers.

Shenkir was one of 17 aero students who worked in another course on "Project Orion," the design of a system of four components for a manned landing on Mars. The shuttle was one of four project elements.

UT RECEIVES GRANT FOR DRUG ED CENTER

AUSTIN

The U. S. Office of Education has issued a grant to the College of Pharmacy of The University of Texas at Austin to establish and administer a drug education center that will be located at the UT Medical School at San Antonio.

The UT drug education center, one of four in the nation, will prepare teams of educators, students and civic leaders from various states who will return to their communities to train others.

Experts in sociology, psychology, medicine, education, pharmacy, law and rehabilitation will join in the effort to offer a comprehensive new approach to drug education.

It is Father's Day! May we honor the guy whose heart is as tender as a woman's . . . the fellow whose respect is as genuine as that of a mother. This nationally celebrated day for Father didn't come too soon. For Dad is the guy who dared the wiles of the forest and the death-dealing miseries of the prairie, to insure added comforts for Mom, and Sue, and Dan. The taming of the west is actually the story of gruff ole 'Pop' in his triumph over difficulty and danger to make a finer future for those he loved. He was the hardy pathmaker for our feet.

Gifts for Father? Yes, but much better would be a gracious, kind word of thanks for all his sacrifices through the year. On this celebrated day, say a prayer to the great Father God, for happiness and comradeship that will soften the burdens of the remaining years, and make the last ones truly his most Golden Years.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Mental Health Centers

The community role in improving mental health among Americans has grown steadily from its beginning in 1963, aided up to mid-1969 by $292.2 million in Federal funds and some $595 million from state and local tax funds and private sources to develop community mental health centers.

These local centers total 400 and when completed will serve more than 26 percent of the U.S. population. At the end of 1969, Kentucky ranked highest in population to be served (82.5 percent), followed by North Dakota, South Carolina, Washington, D.C., Colorado, and Maine.

In 1963, Congress authorized Federal aid to establish the centers under the Community Mental Health Centers Act. This provides for financial grants to public and nonprofit organizations and agencies for expanding facilities and services.

States and localities share the costs also. Some centers are located in general hospitals; and many of the community programs are developed through affiliation of various local agencies.

Each center, whether urban, rural, or suburban, serves an area of from 75,000 to 200,000 persons.

A wide range of community-based psychnatric services is provided by the centers. These include inpatient and outpatient treatment, partial hospitalization, emergency services, and consultation and education to community agencies and caregivers.

All 50 States, and Puerto Rico and Washington, D.C., have received funds to build new centers or expand existing facilities, and to help staff the centers for a beginning period of operation. Nearly 200 of the centers have begun accepting patients.

For a list of centers in your State, or information on how a community mental health center can come into being, write to the Division of Community Mental Health Service Programs, National Institute of Mental Health, 5454 Wisconsin Avenue, Chevy Chase, Maryland 20015. There is no charge.

Safe Hours Mount For Alcoa RW

Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works has just passed the 500,000 safe work hour milestone as its 1970 Teammate Safety Contest swings into high gear. The half-million mark was reached on Tuesday, June 2, as the 1700 Rockdale Alcoans continued to produce high quality metal in a safe manner.

In the plant's Teammate Safety Contest, one ticket from among hundreds is drawn. R. E. Chollett, Rockdale resident and craneman on Potline 2, Crew 2, was the big winner at the June 2 contest drawing, and his 13 teammates also received cash awards since they worked in the same team as Chollett, as defined by contest rules.

Rockdale Works expects to pass the one million safe work hour mark on July 26, at which time two new winning tickets will be drawn, according to A. E. Menke, safety supervisor at the aluminum plant.

"Rockdale Works is able to reach such safety goals by continued, day by day safe practices and attitudes of each of its 1700 Alcoans," Menke explained.

In 1967-68 Alcoa's Rockdale Works (this country's largest primary aluminum smelter) set a company-wide smelting division safety record of 2,780,991 safe working hours. This represented a total of 417 safe work days.

KJZT Has Convention At Austin

The KJZT Union of Czech Catholic Women of Texas holds its XXIII Regular General Convention at Austin, June 14-17.

The officers, committees, and delegates, numbering about 250, from 128 active local KJZT societies represent over 22,000 Catholic women and girls scattered in all the dioceses of Texas.

Mrs. Hermina Kotrola is attending as the delegate for Cameron Society 48. Delegates from Marak Society 21 are Mrs. Mary Hubnik and Mrs. Viola Sevcik.

The Catholic women's insurance fraternal is nearing its 75th anniversary. Historically the fraternal was started by Czech ladies in Texas, but since 1939 its membership is open to Catholic girls and women.

The convention business is preceded by a KJZT Youth Spectacular of folk music and dancing and drills staged Sunday afternoon. Closing of the convention is scheduled for Wednesday evening.

Milam FB Sets Supper

Milam County Farm Bureau will have a covered dish supper at the Buckholts High School Cafeteria beginning at 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 20.

This will be an outing for the entire family which will include games, dominoes, etc. No speakers are planned.

The bread, drinks, paper plates, napkins, paper cups, etc. will be furnished by the Farm Bureau.

All members of the Milam County Farm Bureau are urged to attend.

New Rules Set Up For Record Fish

AUSTIN

Trotliners, throwliners, giggers and archery fishermen are going to have their share of the spotlight in Texas' official fishing record books, thanks to a change in procedures enacted by the Texas Outdoor Writers Association.

The association, which cooperates with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in keeping track of the largest fish of each species caught with rod and reel, has established "unrestricted" divisions for freshwater and saltwater fishes landed through "other legal means."

This change means recognition will be given to some anglers who have caught the biggest fish of a particular species but were barred from the record book because they used something other than rod and reel.

A notable example is Austin resident David Smith, who recently shot a 41 pound, 12-ounce carp in the city's Town Lake. His fish easily surpassed in size the 23 pound - 12 - ounce carp which holds the rod and reel record.

Three freshwater rod and reel records are "open." They are for freshwater drum (gaspergou) flathead catfish and blue catfish.

All fish submitted as records must be weighed on an inspected scale with the statement of weight signed by two witnesses, one of whom must be a disinterested witness. This statement must include the length and girth of the fish, and a photo also should be included if possible.

The possible records may be submitted to any member of the association, or to information and education director of the Department.

WHAT OTHERS SAY. . .

Can You Afford A House?

One of our correspondents visiting Moscow reported that the only criticism of Soviet policy he heard voiced by his Intourist guide was the quietly expressed hope that the Russian Government would someday get around to building single-family houses. Moscow, of course, is full of big apartment houses -- blocks of flats.

It would be worthwhile if United States policymakers would heed similar criticisms today. Thanks to the "recession," to high mortgage rates and the high cost of building, American housing starts are down by as much as 21 percent -- have been declining since last summer. The National Association of Home Builders estimates that just 730,000 single family homes will be built in 1970, almost 50,000 fewer than during the last housing crunch in 1966.

Says Representative Wright Patman, chairman of the house Banking and Currency Committee: "Virtually all moderate-income families have been priced out of the housing market." Many people cannot afford payments on a $20,000 house loan.

So what happens in the construction industry? With fewer family-size homes built -- the houses which give individuals a sense of property - owning and security -- builders instead put up bigger, more costly structures: high-rise apartments, office buildings, shopping centers.

Corrective measures can and should be taken. The Nixon administration has sponsored, and the Senate has approved, a plan authorizing the Federal Home Loan Bank to subsidize loans to the nation's savings and loan associations, largest single source of credit for home construction. Plans are also being discussed to insulate mortgage financing from the tight money policies aimed at restraining inflation. One suggestion is to make interest rates on housing flexible -- rising and falling along with other interest costs.

Americans have come to a sad situation when, as is now the case, the only low-cost housing available in many areas are the mobile homes. (An estimated 400,000 were sold last year.) Let's see Congress get cracking with legislation to help individuals buy and own their homes -- come recession, inflation, or prosperity.

The Diplomatic Pouch

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State:

Cambodia

The North Vietnamese have had sanctuaries in Cambodia for five years. Why did President Nixon wait until now to order U.S. ground operations into that neutral country?

Woodmere, N.Y.

Dear L.K.Y.:

While these sanctuaries have long been a problem for U.S. and allied forces in South Viet-Nam, until recently the Cambodian Government was able to limit their use even though North Vietnamese actions were a clear violation of Cambodia's neutrality. In recent months increasing North Vietnamese use of the sanctuaries prompted the Cambodian authorities to place further restrictions on the flow of supplies to Communist forces. In fact, Prince Sihanouk was actually traveling to Moscow and Peking to seek to help in reducing Communist use of Cambodian territory when he was ousted from power in the capital, Phnom Penh.

When the Lon Nol government replaced Sihanouk, it tried to enforce Cambodian neutrality more strictly by closing Sihanoukville to Communist traffic and seeking negotiations to obtain a Viet Cong/North Vietnamese Army withdrawal from Cambodian territory. In April the North Vietnamese began moving more actively out of their sanctuaries and deeper into Cambodia in an effort to establish a solid Communist-held zone reaching to Sihanoukville and the sea along 600 miles of the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border.

This would have given them a far stronger position in Cambodia than they had ever had; it would have assured them of potentially unlimited supply and replacement capabilities; and it would thus have posed a critically increased threat to remaining U.S. forces nearby across the South Vietnamese border. This would have undermined the feasibility of continuing the President's policy of withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Viet-Nam.

The U.S./Vietnamese operation in Cambodia is limited in extent, purpose, and duration. It is a combined U.S.-South Viet-Nam strike that involves several major enemy sanctuaries and adjacent border territories. The direct objective of this military operation is to capture enemy stores and supplies; to disrupt Communist logistics and communications capabilities; and to prevent the enemy from building his forces in the sanctuary areas in preparation for attacks on U.S. and allied forces in South Viet-Nam. When this is achieved, our forces will withdraw into South Viet-Nam. Some U.S. forces have already done so. The President has announced that the great majority of U.S. troops will be out of Cambodia by the second week of June, and that the operation will be concluded by the end of June.

The presence of our forces and those of South Viet-Nam in Cambodia is not an invasion of that country. The areas in which these attacks have been launched are completely occupied and controlled by North Vietnamese forces.

We have not violated Cambodia's neutrality; we are there with the approval of the Cambodian Government, which seeks to restore its neutrality by ending the illegal North Vietnamese occupation of part of its territory. The United States has recognized the sovereignty, independence, neutrality, and territorial integrity of Cambodia since the 1954 Geneva accords.

Destroying the North Vietnamese installations and supplies in the sanctuaries should win at least six to ten months for further strengthening the South Vietnamese forces to meet future threats from this area without assistance from U.S. units. This should make it possible to continue without interruption the U.S. troop withdrawal program.

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

The forests of Texas, in addition to providing labor and producing products used in our daily life, have many other values. They help regulate stream flow and aid in erosion control; provide food and habitat for wildlife; furnish recreation opportunities for picnicking, hiking, camping, fishing and bird watching; and provide scenic beauty, conducive to better living. The Texas Forest Service, through its many activities, helps make these benefits available.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I enjoyed your program on the "Ten Acres" show today, out of Bryan.

I would like to subscribe for your paper. Please write me the price, as I lived in Milam County, at the town of Gause in the fall of 1913. At that time, I was 14 years old, now I am 71 years old. I will always love Cameron, Milam County and the people of Gause. When at Gause I was active in the Methodist Church and I am sure there are people who now live in the county that remember me when I lived at Gause.

Thanking you and hoping to hear from you soon, I am

Sincerely yours,
Sincerely yours,

Attention: Mr. Frank M. Luecke

Dear Sir:

My mother, Mrs. John Ryan, is a subscriber to the Herald, and you sent it to my address in Houston.

I am particularly interested in your sending the last issue, June 4, to my sister-in-law in Beeville, so she will know about the schedule of the Folk Fete, and Urban Renewal Plan. . . .

I plan to be in Cameron with mother for the Folk Fete and will pay you this weekend for the copy and mailing.

Thank you,
Mrs. Geo. T. Moore

Methodists List Pastors For Bryan District

Appointments have been announced for Methodist churches in the Bryan District, following the recent annual convention.

In Cameron, Rev. Alvis Coleman was reappointed as pastor of First United Methodist Church. He will also serve as pastor for the Maysfield and Tracy Methodist churches, alternating services each Sunday. (See Herald church page listings.)

Other appointments include M. Keith Kellow of Houston, new District Superintendent; Bremond-Calvert, Rev. Gary Minion; Caldwell - Rev. Fred F. Carter Jr., Jefferson Chapel, Rev. J. E. Buchanan; Hearne - Gause, Rev. R. W. Hillenkamp;

Hearne - East Calvert circuit, Rev. F. G. Byrd; Lesington - Blue, Rev. Elmer L. Beck; Lott -Chilton, Rev. Lee Roy Williams; Maysfield - Rosebud, Rev. Curtis Pittman; Milano, Rev. George E. Doss Jr.;

Rockdale - Rev. J. Stewart Bell; Rosebud - Cedar Springs, Rev. William Garland Reeves; Thorndale - Pleasant Retreat, Rev. Nelson Herod.

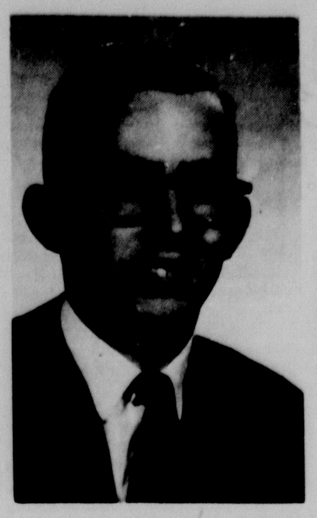
FORMER PASTORS

Assignments for former pastors of the Cameron church include: Rev. Ben Pierce - from San Augustine to Rusk; Rev. C. A. West - from Livingston to Madisonville.

Returned to their assignments were Rev. R. M. Freeman, Waco; Rev. E. J. Davis Jr., Pollard Church, Tyler; Rev. Jewell Strong, Pittsburg; and Rev. John Mills, McMahon's Chapel.

Stroganoff Stars

Beef stroganoff, in addition to flavor, has another appeal. It may be prepared ahead and heated again when the guests have arrived. Sour cream folds in quickly right before service. Served over rice or noodles with green beans Parmesan, citrus salad, rolls, grenadine fruit sundae and coffee, beef stroganoff for a party dinner is a delicious success.



SAFEWAY MANAGER - Billie Quiram, former assistant manager of Cameron Safeway, has been named manager of the local supermarket. A native of Marlin, Quiram has been with Safeway ten years. His wife teaches English at Yoe High School.

Governor Smith To Speak At BRA Dam Dedication

Governor Preston Smith will be the principal speaker at dedication ceremonies for DeCordova Ben Dam and Lake Granbury, Brazos River Authority officials announced today.

The dedication ceremonies are scheduled to be held at the DeCordova Bend damsite at 4 p.m. on Friday, June 19.

"This is a day that many people have been looking forward to for a long time," said A. L. Brooks, Jr., president of the Brazos River Authority. He said the DeCordova Bend dam had been the dream, not only of the authority, but of people in Granbury and Hood County, for more than 30 years.

Brooks said this major water resource development project is unique in being financed and built without any tax money.

"Revenues from the sales of water will pay off the Brazos River Authority's bonds issued to finance construction of the project," he said, "with most of the revenues coming from sales of industrial water under a contract with two power companies, Texas Power & Light Company and Texas Electric Service Company."

He pointed out it was this contract that made it possible to build the project.

He said water would also be available from the project to meet other industrial as well as municipal and agricultural needs in the Brazos valley.

Charles Neblett, chairman of the dedication committee of the Authority's board of directors, said the public is cordially invited to the dedication ceremonies which will be held at the visitors' observation point overlooking the dam about seven air miles south of Granbury.

The Brazos River Authority is the state agency responsible for conservation and development of the water resources of the entire Brazos basin, which covers about one-sixth of the area of Texas.

The authority owns and operates Possum Kingdom dam and reservoir, as well as the DeCordova Bend project.

It also owns the conservation storage space in five Corps of Engineers reservoirs in the basin which it combines with its own projects to form a basin-wide system of water supply reservoirs.

The authority is also actively involved in protecting the environment of the basin through water quality studies and projects.

It is ready to start construction of the first regional sewerage system in the Brazos basin which will serve six cities in the Waco metropolitan area, and it is conducting regional studies in three other areas.

The Brazos River Authority, although a public agency of the state, receives no tax money. It is completely self-supporting and pays for all its projects and activities from its operating revenues.

Combine Extra Ham With Spinach, Cheese For Delicious Fondue

A leftover has the potential of being as exciting as the original main dish! One superb example that proves the point is baked ham.

Baked Ham-Spinach Fondue

- 2 cups ground or finely chopped ham
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach
- 1½ cups soft bread crumbs or cubes
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
- 3 eggs

Cook spinach according to directions on package and drain, squeezing out excess water. Combine with ham, bread crumbs, cheese, milk, pepper and nutmeg. Separate eggs. Beat yolks until light and stir into ham mixture. Beat whites until stiff and lightly fold into mixture. Pour into a 1½-quart ungreased casserole. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) 50 to 60 minutes or until firm. 6 servings.

Captain Bridges was decorated for meritorious service as radar staff officer for the 965th Airborne Early Warning and Control Squadron (AEWCS) at McClellan.

He is now assigned to the 963rd AEWCS, a unit of the Aerospace Defense Command which protects the U. S. against hostile aircraft and missiles.

The captain was commissioned in 1962 through Officer Training School, Lackland AFB, Tex., and has completed a tour of duty in Vietnam.

A 1956 graduate of Temple (Tex.) High School, he received a B.A. degree in government in 1962 from the University of Texas.

The captain and his wife, Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Zoller, Star Route 1, Beeville, have three children, James S., 7, Shelly K., 5, and Paul D., 3.

SEBERO M. PEREZ

WICHITA, Kan.

U.S. Air Force Technical Sergeant Sebero M. Perez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Perez of 902 S. Second St., Rosebud, has arrived for duty at McConnell AFB, Kan.

Sergeant Perez, an automotive maintenance technician, is assigned to the 23rd Transportation Squadron, a unit of the Tactical Air Command which provides combat units for air support of U.S. ground forces.

The sergeant, who previously served at Phan Rang AB, Vietname, completed requirements for his high school diploma after entering the Air Force.

BOBBY C. WIESE

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C.

Coast Guard Petty Officer First Class Bobby C. Wiese, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wiese of Rosebud, Tex., has been participating in the Coast Guard's effort to alleviate some of the pollutant sources in the tidewater area of the central eastern states.

Located 50 miles south of Norfolk, Va., one of the largest seaports on the east coast, Elizabeth City helicopters and fixed wing aircraft make weekly oil pollution surveillance flights, looking for pollution and its sources.

Through either pollution containment experiments or surveillance, each Coast Guardsman at Elizabeth City is directly or indirectly involved in the control of pollution.

You Don't Say . . .

PENULTIMATE

nor do you read or hear it without a real sense of gratification-- IF -- you know what it means!

PENULTIMATE is pronounced pi NUL tuh mit. The dictionary definition is "next to the last". "Of or, belonging to the next to the last syllable". It is the combined form of Latin PAENE; almost ULTIMATE; beyond which there is no other; last of a series.

In an editorial it was used: "the PENULTIMATE paragraph. . .".

One of those words which set the educated speaker apart from the average because he can speak forcefully-- his speech uncluttered with banalties.

MRS. CLIFFORD H. STATON

Church Rites Unite Miss Robbins, Staton

Trinity Chapel in Austin was the setting for the June 6 wedding of Miss Cheryl Gay Robbins and Mr. Clifford H. Staton.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Alton Robbins of Cameron. She is a 1966 graduate of Cameron Yoe High School and Durham Business College of Austin and is employed as secretary at IBM in Austin. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Staton of Austin. He is presently employed by the Ford Motor Credit Company.

The couple exchanged their vows in the sanctuary with candelabra holding burning white candles centered with a basket of gladiolas. Greenery completed the setting.

The Rev. Melvin Clearman officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Rayetta Clearman sang "I Take Thee Dear," and the "Wedding Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a semi-fitted A-line gown of satin faced peau de soie with bodice of Chantilly lace featuring three fourth length bell shaped sleeves. The flowing train of Chantilly lace was attached high on the bodice. Her bouffant veil of tulle fell from a Dior bow fashioned of Peau de soie and she carried a formal cascade of french feathered carnations and stephanotis with English ivy centered with two cymbidium orchids.

Miss Jacqueline Robbins of Cameron was maid of honor and Mrs. Jean Day of Austin, matron of honor, both sisters of the bride. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Emma Lou Lillard of Austin. They wore floor length A-line gowns of aqua dotted swiss trimmed with white ribbon with bows of matching ribbons in their hair. All attendants carried bouquets of white daisies and yellow pompon mums.

Terry Leigh Staton of Austin was flower girl. She wore a floor length A-line gown and bow headpiece identical to those worn by the attendants. Ring bearer was Derrick Peiskee of Fort Worth.

Charles Staton of Austin served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Darwin Staton of Austin and Weldon Staton of Palestine, brothers of the groom.

Gaywin Day and Crockett Staton of Austin were ushers and candlelighters.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Robbins chose a pastel blue dress and white cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother chose a two piece rose pink suit with white accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

The church fellowship hall was the setting for the wedding reception. Miss Debra Day registered guests. The bride's table was covered with a floor length white lace cloth, trimmed in ruffled net and lace. The table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and white burning candles. It held the wedding cake and crystal punch bowl.

Mrs. Bob Glenn of Austin served the cake and Mrs. Ann Peiskee of Fort Worth served the punch.

The groom's table was laid with an ecru crocheted cloth and held a chocolate double wedding ring cake. Blue candles in the bride's matching holders centered the table with an arrangement of greenery. Miss Gwen Smith of Belton and Miss Terri Peiskee of Fort Worth presided at the groom's table.

Rice was distributed by Miss Tina Peiskee and Miss Pam Smith.

The bride's going-away dress, for a trip to the Coast, was an ensemble of white and blue with white accessories. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Staton will make their home at 7584 Chevy Chase # 106, Austin, Texas.

Parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday at their Austin home where the couple presented their attendants with gifts.

Out of town guests included relatives and friends from Fort Worth, Franklin, Palestine, Killeen, Belton and Cameron.

Powell-McDonald Hold Reunion In Cameron

Sunday, June 7, the descendents of Mr. and Mrs. John Tucker McDonald, William Crofford, Fannie Redden Powell, Charles Marshall and Martha Tubbs Powell, early settlers in the Ad Hall Community, held their seventh annual reunion at the National Hall in Cameron.

Bob Powell of Austin was master of ceremonies for the occasion. Jay Robert, 2 1/2 month old son of Bob Powell, was the youngest present, Celous Powell, 88, was the oldest and Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Lewis, Amarillo, traveled the longest distance for the reunion.

About 81 people registered for the reunion and included family members from Temple, Houston, Drumright, Okla., Port Arthur, Giddings, Cameron, Austin, Waco, Pasadena, Fort Worth, Buckholts, Blackwell, Jefferson, Shreveport, La., Caldwell, Plano and Oak CLiff.

Some of the older citizens attending were Celous Powell, 88, of Jefferson; Reuben Powell, 76, of Fort Worth; Mrs. Berta Weems, 82, of Cameron descendents of William Crofford and Fannie Redden Powell; also a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Walter Powell, 78, Cameron, and Mrs. Hugh Powell, 69, a daughter-in-law of the late Charles Marshall and Martha Tubbs Powell.

Most of the day was spent in visiting with each other. Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Herrin and Mr. and Mrs. Loyce Herrin visited the home grounds of their grandfather and great grandfather, William Henry (Bee) Powell, brother of W. C. and C. M. Powell.

The late Mr. Powell was a resident of the Ad Hall Community for 22 years, settling there with his family in 1869 after leaving Bibb County, Ala.

The group plans to have another reunion next year the first Sunday in June at National Hall.

Wedding Date Set

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cliston Boyd of Temple, Texas, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Lea Boyd, to Mark Maedgen Humble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Garfield Humble of Cameron.

The wedding is planned for August 29 in Austin.

Miss Boyd attended Mary Baldwin College and was graduated from the University of Texas where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha. Her fiance was also graduated from the University of Texas. He is a student in the University of Texas School of Law.

Martha Reigns

Martha Lynn McDermott was named queen of Rockdale's Jubilee Days last weekend. She was officially crowned by Renda Roddam, 1969 Jubilee Days Queen, during the Saturday night rodeo performance.

Miss McDermott, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lyle McDermott of Cameron, was sponsored by the Cameron Trail Ride. Other nominees were Marcie Currey, Lexington, Mecky Majors, Thorndale, Beverly Dornhoefer, Milano-Gause, Nancy Paris, Salty, and Jeanne Cotton, Caldwell.

SPECIAL SERVICES START JUNE 22 AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

Special services will be held at the Church of Christ, East 3rd and N. Central in Cameron next week, starting Monday, June 22.

Paul Wallace of Brownwood will be speaker in the series of meetings which will begin at 8 each evening. Wallace, who has been located at Brownwood for about ten years, has conducted meetings at the Cameron church in the past.

Nelson Stark, local minister of Church of Christ, said the public is invited to the meetings, which will be held through Sunday, June 28.

Miss Rhea Helmreich of Columbia, Missouri and Miss Ann Baskin of Dallas spent the weekend with the W. N. Burns family.

HD Club Plans Annual Fun Day

By Christine Laws

Milam County Home Demonstration Club members are planning big things for June 1970.

On June 17 at 10:30 a.m. at Simon George Hall in Cameron the H. D. Council EEE Standing Committee is sponsoring the annual Fun Day. The program will be both educational and enjoyable.

Jennie Kitching, specialist from Texas A&M Extension Service will speak on Families of the 70s. Following a covered dish luncheon, Mrs. Maurina Corley of Cameron will present a Texas musical program.

The historical marker to be erected in Milam County in memory of the first H. D. Agent in the state will be explained by Mrs. Clyde Holliman of Rockdale. Recreation will follow.

This program is open to the public, so bring a covered dish and a friend and come.

SEWING KNITS

Knits are the big picture for Spring 1970 with a variety ranging from lighter-than-air polyester and open, meshy cotton and blends to sleek matte jersey and terry velours.

To sew these exciting fabrics into reasonably priced garments use stretch threads that give with the knits. They are made of all polyester or polyester and cotton.

Give a professional finish to the hem with stretch lace hem binding which comes in many colors.

Check the sewing center for ball point needles with a slightly rounded point and the roller pressuer foot which prevents snagging or danage to the knits.

Wash machine washable knits, zipper, hem binding and interfacing before sewing to prevent any skrinkage later. Knit garments require little care.

DISTRICT MANAGER - T. W. Kidd, native of Cameron, has been named district manager of Eastern Venezuela for Mene Grande Oil Co., a subsidiary of Gulf Oil Corp. He has been district manager of Roswell, N.M. since 1967.

Lighting Brings Allure to Bath

Now that wall-to-wall carpeting has moved into the bathroom, a new elegance is demanded of that former functionary.

To counter the coldness of porcelain fixtures, try introducing a few warm touches of wood. A new ceiling of translucent panels set in a wooden framework is easy to construct and install. It's also easy on the pocket book.

One-by-two-inch slats of hemlock, fir or cedar can be used to make a frame of two - foot squares or larger. This can be suspended on wires from screw hooks anchored firmly in the existing ceiling.

Precut translucent panels can be slipped in to rest on the framework, and just as easily moved when the time comes to replace a bulb or neon tube.

'Sea Gull' Onstage At Trinity U

The newest Paul Baker experiment -- in his current production of "The Sea Gull" in Trinity University's Ruth Taylor Theater -- involves audience logistics, as well as the dramatic innovation for which he is known.

Imaginative planning has turned Theater One into an exciting new theater - in - the - round for the summer -- a set-up that creates an air of intimacy in the large theater, yet retains its spaciousness.

The innovations extend even to the theatergoers' approach for Theater One productions: down the terrace stairs, through the patio, to the new foyer in the lower-level Cafe Theater. Here the relaxed, intimate atmosphere begins, with music in the background and refreshments available before curtain time and at intermission.

Once inside Theater One (where "The Sea Gull" is onstage this Friday and Saturday and each weekend through July 11) the effect heightens. On the new arena stage, Chekhov's believable, finely - drawn characters are within arm's reach -- making the theatergoer almost part of the play's action.

The vehicle that Paul Baker has chosen to introduce his Theater One-in-the-round is especially well suited to this sort of intimate abience.

A drama played out in a framework of comedy, "The Sea Gull" brings home with wit and humor the human comedy of man's relationship to (and isolation from) his fellow man.

Add-On Rooms Shown

Architects designed five add-a-room projects pictured in "We Need More Room" booklet, available for 25 cents from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 526-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204. Shown in color are: Master bedroom, over-garage room, garage conversion, learning center, loft room.

ENGAGED - Mr. and Mrs. Willis Mowdy of Rockdale announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Shirley Jean to Mr. Frankie Mikulec, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Mikulec of Cameron. Miss Mowdy is a graduate of Rockdale High School and is presently employed at Scott & White Hospital. Mr. Mikulec is a graduate of Yoe High School and Temple Commercial College and is employed with Santa Fe Railroad. A July 4 wedding is planned.

UT Names President, New Dean

Administration and faculty changes have been announced by The University of Texas at Austin, including that of president, a dean, and chancellor.

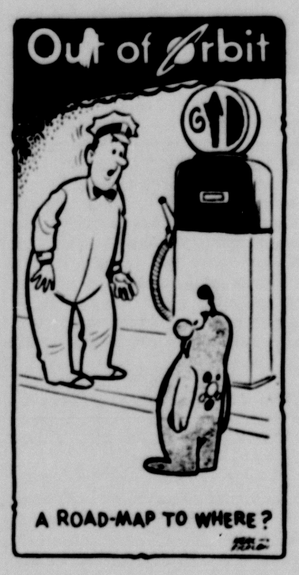
Dr. Bryce Jordan will become president ad interim of UT on July 1. He succeeds Dr. Norman Hackerman who resigned to become president of Rice University on Sept. 1. Jordan has served as UT Austin vice president for student affairs.

Dr. Lorrin Kennamer, former associate dean of the UT College of Arts and Sciences, will be new dean of the College of Education. He has served as dean of arts and sciences at Texas Tech for the past three years.

Kennamer, a geographer, will succeed Dean Wayne Holtzman who is leaving to become president of the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health.

On January 1, Dr. Harry Ransom will conclude his term as chancellor of the UT System. As chancellor emeritus he will continue to consult with the UT Board of Regents on academic programs and planning.

Dr. Ransom has been associated with the University since 1935, holding both academic and administrative positions.



Name Game

Rib eye steak has many names! A few are Delmonico, Spencer, Boneless Rib, Club, Boneless Club and Country Club. But no matter the name, rib eye steaks come from the meaty eye muscle which is part of the standing rib. Tender and juicy every time, they're a top choice for broiling on the grill.

Litter Is Individual Problem

With twice as many people using the outdoors today, the litter problem can become immense unless we do something about it ourselves.

Coffee Stands The Test Of Time

According to legend, coffee was first tasted by a goat herder in Ethiopia in about 600 A.D. Word of his discovery spread to Arabia and then onward to eastern Europe until coffee eventually became accepted all over the world.

Coffee popularity has continued to climb with the passing of time and today has become part of our way of life. It helps millions to get started in the morning, gives a lift to keep them perking along during the day and highlights meals and snacks.

Another reason for long-lasting favor is that coffee has kept up with the times. A good example is modern instant Kava, the coffee with 90 per cent of the acids neutralized.

Kava is an instant coffee that was designed to fit our present day tempo. Brew it by the cup in a snap! Just measure a teaspoon of coffee from the jar and put it into a favorite cup or mug. Then add boiling water, stir and enjoy. Use more or less depending on your personal taste preference. To store, reseal the jar securely.

Serve instant low-acid coffee for any occasion, the Borden Kitchen suggests. And remember it can give the final touch to a variety of combinations like the cheese and fruit plate pictured here. The all-time favorite combo goes together for dessert or snack-time and all that is needed to round out the flavors is a good cup of coffee.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF HEARING
THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF MILAM

To all citizens of Milam County, Texas: Take notice that pursuant to Article 1269k, Section 23b and Section 23c of Vernon's Annotated Civil Satutes the Commissioners Court of Milam County will conduct a Public Hearing in the City of Cameron, Texas, on the 29th, day of June, 1970, in the County Courtroom of Milam County at 10:00 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of determining whether insantiary or unsafe inhabited dwelling accommodations exist in Milam County or there is a shortage of safe or sanitary dwelling accommodations in Milam County available to persons of low income at rentals they can afford and whether a regional housing authority would be a more efficient or economical administrative unit than the housing authority of such County to carry out the purposes of the Housing Authorities Law in Milam County.

Grill Repertoire

What kinds of meat are suitable for outdoor broiling? A safe rule is to cook on the grill those cuts which are normally broiled or roasted. Beef steaks (such as rib eye or sirloin), ham slices, pork or lamb chops, kabobs of pork shoulder or beef sirloin tip, ready-to-serve meats as well as ground beef or lamb patties are suitable for broiling. Excellent cuts for the rotisserie are boneless roasts such as rib eye (Delmonico), sirloin tip and rolled rump (when of high quality), rolled leg of lamb, ham and pork loin rolls.

Sack 'Sortment

Sack lunches are "in" when the weather warms. Sandwiches are a natural for the sack since they are both convenient to handle and nutritious. Slices of pork loin roast and Mozzarella cheese make a tasty twosome. Halved frankfurters with mustard provide an always-welcome sandwich. Meat loaf, moistened with catsup, bacon and tomato and chopped ham with pickle relish are other lunchtime pleasers.

Pick Lumber Grade For Job Intended

Knowing the right type of lumber to use when building saves money and sometimes upkeep costs.

Lumber is graded in two ways for strength and for appearance. Strength grades are identified by number: 1, 2, 3 and 4. The smaller the number, the better the wood. Lumber dealers can tell you which is best for your needs.

Don't pay extra for appearance wood when the job is structural and strength and durability are the important needs. Save your dollars for appearance where it counts—in siding, paneling and visible woodwork.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE 1959 - Back row, l to r - Charles Staley, Dennis Jones, Anton Anderle, Steve Malone, Chester Simon, Eugene Taylor, Eugene Schattle, Robert Moraw. Front row, from left-Bobby Jones, Bob Dymke, Ronnie Williams, Mike Mikula, John A. Smith, Curtis Matthews, Earl McGoldrick. These boys were members of several teams playing in the League in 1959. This is the All-Star team, each boy selected for outstanding season performance. The League playing field was at Yoe High School, since the present LL Park was not built. When asked what they liked best, the boys said, "Baseball, watermelon, hamburgers and hot dogs", in that order. And how they loved to play baseball!

BOOSTING TEXAS PRODUCTS - The Milam County Farm Bureau has joined other county Farm Bureaus throughout the state in erecting attractive signs as a part of the Texas Farm Bureau's campaign to promote consumption of Texas-grown farm and ranch products. The local Farm Bureau will erect five signs in this county. The one shown above is located 5 miles west of Cameron on Highway 36. Robert Jungmann, president and Edwin Lehmann, vice-president are pictured here. A total of 600 of the four-color signs have been erected across the state. The Texas Farm Bureau is cooperating with the Texas Department of Agriculture in the Texas Agricultural Product (TAP) promotional effort.

Balance Upset . . .

Bay Areas Threatened

AUSTIN

Texas' bay areas represent a microcosm of the earth's threatened ecology.

The delicate balance among organisms living in the coastal estuaries can be upset by a host of outside influences, and the plight of the State's shallow bays is a graphic example of man's interference with nature.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists have kept watch over the major bays in past years, recording a profusion of data ranging from salinity and siltation to tides and pollutants.

Some of the data already is furnishing valuable information. For example, it has shown that periods of drought can cause high salinities and resultant mortality among shrimp, fish, oysters and other organisms.

Pollution can affect abundance and productivity in two ways -- directly by toxic effect or indirectly by decreasing dissolved oxygen, changing acidity or destruction of food and habitat.

The precious nursery grounds where aquatic species reproduce are vulnerable. Marine fisheries biologist A. R. Martinez, who is heading up a coastal hydrographic study of the main bay areas, said in a recent report that portions of invaluable nursery grounds have been lost "in all coastal areas."

Martinez listed several examples of nursery ground damage in some of the major bay areas during the past years:

-- In Galveston Bay, 1,200 feet of shoreline have been bulkheaded, a marsh area has been drained and a bayou partially blocked. In Moses Lake, a hurricane levee was completed, replacing a one-mile natural opening with a 65-foot gate. Work has started on a U.S. Corps of Engineers project which will turn several square miles of marsh land into a freshwater impoundment.

-- In West Bay, approximately 30 acres of shallow nursery area have been modified by a large basin and an 11,000-foot access channel. At Wilson Point in Jones Lake, natural marsh land was bulkheaded and filled for a housing development.

-- Matagorda Bay suffered damage when an oil company deposited spoil in Powderhorn Lake, covering several good nursery grounds.

-- In San Antonio Bay, spoil from an oil well channel covered approximately 100 acres of prime nursery grounds.

-- In Aransas Bay, approximately 364 acres have been ruined by dredging of the Rockport-Aransas Pass Intracoastal Waterway and several other large channels.

-- In the Corpus Christi Bay area approximately 30 acres of shallow water were bulkheaded and filled to enlarge a city recreation area along the shoreline.

-- In the upper Laguna Madre, about 10 acres of nursery grounds were covered by spoil from an oil well channel. Maintenance dredging of the Intracoastal Waterway resulted in deposition of spoil that closed three small passes between spoil banks where water circulation already was critical. These were later reopened by the Corps of Engineers.

-- In the Lower Laguna Madre, damage to habitat occurred when a levee being used in redredging the Arroyo Colorado broke and blocked off an important nursery ground area near the old arroyo bed.

The Texas bays, therfore, continue to be imperiled from all sides. Heavy rain on the watersheds brings tons of silt, pesticides and other elements into the estuaries. Dry periods allow salinity to rise, also threatening the balance.

BUCKHOLTS

By Mrs. Edwin Gandy

The First Baptist Church are having a revival this week with Bro. Joe Patterson doing the preaching each evening at 8 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ladis Marek and children accompanied by the Johnnie Morgan family spent last Thursday in Galveston. On their return home they came by his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Semik of Houston for a visit.

Billy Wayne Marek is spending two weeks with his uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. John Semik.

Visiting in the L. A. Svetlik home over the weekend were the U. D. Adams and sons from Austin.

Those visiting in the home of Mrs. Evelyn Loftin on Sunday were her mother, Mrs. N. W. Gandy from Temple, Mrs. Myrtle Hill of Houston and Mrs. Margie Schrank and children of Cameron.

Mrs. Frank Garey is a patient in Newton Memorial Hospital of Cameron.

Mrs. Tal Woodward is still a patient in Scott and White Hospital and is reported to be doing better.

Visiting the W. H. Gilbert home on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Linn Lewis of Waco on Sunday, the I. T. Gilbert family from Cameron, Mrs. Sadie Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson from Cameron.

Those visiting in the Orba Arnold home on Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cochran from Rosebud and on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hughetter from Houston, and Miss Mary and Neomi Walschak.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Prater of Taylor visited in Buckholts this week.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gandy on Sunday were Bro. and Mrs. C. A. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Whittington and Mr. Frank Garey.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Whittington visited her mother, Mrs. Lee Garrett of Bartlett.

Ever wonder about a baby elephant? It isn't weaned until it is about five years old.

Mills Joins CTCOG

Mills County became the fifth county government to become a member of the Central Texas Council of Governments (CTCOG).

The Mills County commissioners court also approved the installation of a teletype unit in the county sheriff's department.

Mills joined Bell, Coryell, Lampasas, and Hamilton counties as members of the six-county CTCOG area. Milam is the only county not presently a member of the organization.

Installation of the teletype unit will complete the six-county network of teletypes to tie in all counties and some city police departments and Fort Hood.

The roster of CTCOG now includes five counties, sixteen cities, two colleges, three school districts and nine special interest districts as well as 34 associate members.

Rifle Association Championship Set

The National Rifle Association of America will conduct the 10th annual U. S. International Shooting Championships at Phoenix, Arizona, July 13-26.

The rifle and pistol events will be shot on Maricopa County's Black Canyon Ranges and the shotgun matches will be held at Phoenix Trap & Skeet Club.

The annual championships will have an added zest this year since they will also be the final tryouts for selection for the U.S. Shooting Team which will compete in the 40th World Shooting Championships, scheduled to be held in Phoenix, October 17-26.

More than 500 of this country's best rifle, pistol and shotgun target shooters have been invited by the N.R.A. to participate in the final tryouts and most have accepted the invitation.
